Reflections 1987
XIX

Freshmen get into the spirit of things the first week of school.

Spirit personified: Lisa Logan, Jannie Greer, Rosette Gray, Tidie Hill, Cheryl Owens, Krista Adams and Reeshemah McCullough.

Junior Emmanuel Macalino Seniors Paul Gomez, Percival Molina, Raphael Perez-Zapata, Junior Damion McMiller and Senior Joseph Marte know what spirit's all about.

Spirit

The spirited Pilot Pride is obvious year round, on campus and off. Students can always find a reason to have a good time and support their school.

Displaying the unforgettable Pilot spirit are Junior Lisa Logan, Senior Rochelle Tocchini, Junior Sally Haims, Senior Jenny Steed, Junior Rebecca Collins, and on the slide Senior La Tanya St. Charles.

Unexpected

Action

From Freshman Welcome Week to the Baccalaureate Mass for the Seniors, the action on campus is non-stop.

The activity is not all fun and games, though. Mental activity is in epidemic proportions, especially around exam time!

The SJND crowd is also known for its involvement in sports. Junior Mimi Moultrie is pictured running for the winning cross country team.

The perfect food to provide Frosh energy: ice cream!

The Thinker, Junior Norman Wooten, shows us SJND mental action.

Taking time to add input, Senior Rhea Vito Cruz shows us computer action.

Soph friends Michelle Johnson and Linda Jaber compare class schedules.

Mrs. Luedtke laughs with Senior friends Ken Caughell, Rico Lyles and Rod Fields.

Taking a campus stroll are Senior friends Rosette Gray and Sara Gutierrez.

Unchanging

Friendship

No dictionary can define friendship better than can the students of SJND. An extraordinary sense of unity exists on this campus. With fewer than 400 students, there is a special closeness not experienced at larger schools. No one can "blend into the crowd" here.

Displaying their unchanging friendship are dancing partners Angie Fong and Katie Millosovich, Seniors. Katie reminisces, "Remember rolling down the hill on Angel Island in second grade and seeing a snake? Or was it a caterpillar? We were destined to be best friends!"

ACT

ION

Activity is always a part of life, but the SJND students managed to make it a BIG part of their lives.

Most everyone on campus was involved in some way. "Going to school activities is social. It's a great way to make more friends, and also make the year go by faster!" said Michelle Ybarra, Sophomore.

Don't ever say that SJND wasn't fun—if a person was ever bored on campus, it wasn't for lack of activity!

The Freshman Class was welcomed to SJND by the upperclassmen with cheers, banners, games and ice cream for lunch.

Frosh Graciela Jimenez takes an ice cream break from the hectic first two weeks' school routine.

Sept. 2: The day summer stood still

Agony

The first day of school some students will do anything to get a lift. Junior Myla Lara helps Soph Steve Ghio get to class on time.

The first week of school is a good time to get reacquainted. Juniors Rachel Kempel and Lanette Hendren catch up on the news.

Students meandered through the gates of St. Joseph Notre Dame, books in hands, backpacks on and writing utensils ready for notes. It was Sept. 2, 1986 . . . the day summer stood still.

No one will forget that memorable day. No longer could the students go out with their friends, do as they pleased or get up late. It was time to return to higher education.

During the summer, most students did not have to think about homework. The day summer stood still changed that for the next 10 months. Each student had at least one hour's work every night. Many had their own ideas about this. "I did about 25 percent of my homework, but that homework was a 98 percent inconvenience to my schedule," commented Peter Collins, Sophomore.

A break in the routine of the first two weeks came during Freshman Welcome Week. "The week was really cool. Everyone was friendly; the faculty was great," said Clay Doherty, Freshman.

"I met many people, and it sure made it easier to start school," said Frosh Julie Caldwell.

The first two weeks ended with the Freshman Welcome Dance on Friday night, "a good social side to school life," according to Frosh Chris Hunter.

So although summer stood still, the students of SJND did not!

QA

Question and Answer

View

Big Mac Attack

Fast food is everywhere! We are being invaded by Burger Kings, Wendy's and Taco Bells. And these places are constantly being attacked by teenagers.

But let's not forget about the King of Burgers: the Golden Arches. McDonald's, voted the favorite of SJND students, overran Nations by 86 votes and doubled the votes for Burger King.

Top Gun!

The results are in!! The survey revealed that Howard the Duck was the worst movie of the summer while Top Gun was overwhelmingly voted the best. "Top Gun was an all-round exciting movie. Of course, Tom Cruise made the movie great also," explained Soph Michelle Ybarra.

School Sweeties

Students don't seem to be missing out on the social scene! One out of every 2.4 Pilots has a girlfriend or boyfriend.

Senior Charlie Heath is pictured with girlfriend Senior Rochelle Tocchini. Charlie said, "Having a girlfriend is nice because you always have someone to talk to!"

The Beat

Congrats KSOL and KMEL! The SJND music fans have rated you the top two radio stations in the Bay Area.

Poll

SJND students were polled the week of Sept. 8 to find out the ins and outs on and off campus!

'Guess' the Fad

What should I wear to school? is not a question asked often by SJND women. When they do get a break from their Sue Mills apparel, though, they enjoy designers just as much as the men do. Favorite designers, tying for first place, are Polo / Ralph Lauren and Guess.

Coming in second was Esprit, but don't ever forget those good ol' classic designers like Levi and Calvin Klein!

Hot Mags

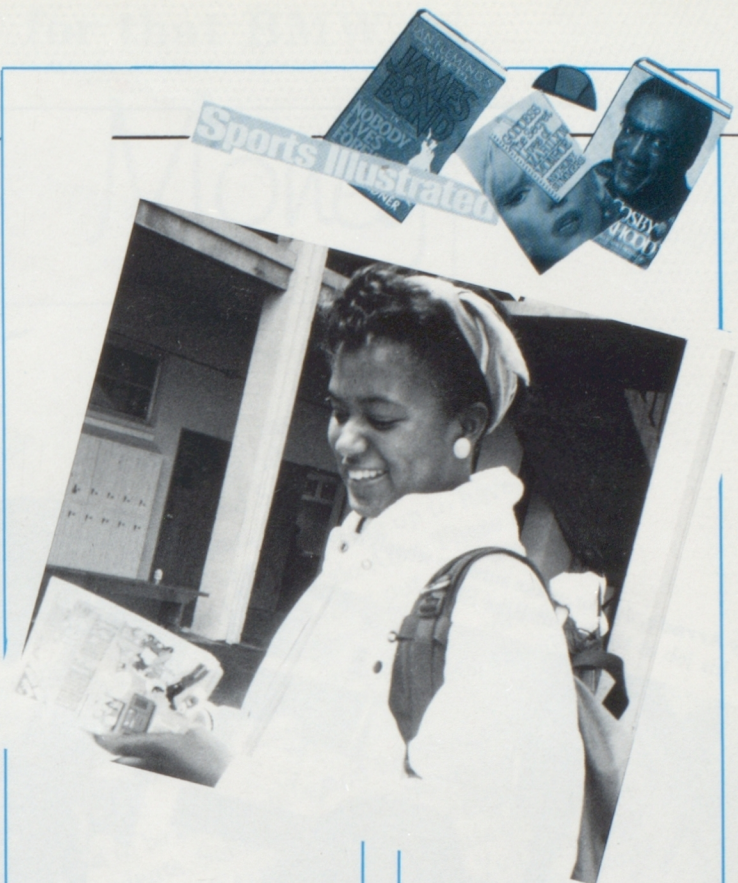

Well, sports fans have taken the lead again! SJND's favorite magazine ... the drumroll please ... is Sports Illustrated.

It's no wonder this is a popular mag, with so many athletes such as Soph runner Brenda Cavanaugh (left) on campus!

One Plus One

Least favorite subject? It was a close race between math and English; math with 75 votes and English 63.

"I voted for English," said Rafael Perez-Zapata, "because Mrs. Luedtke makes it difficult. By doing this she makes us think more; but if it was up to me I'd rather not think and remain a 'parasite' my Senior year."

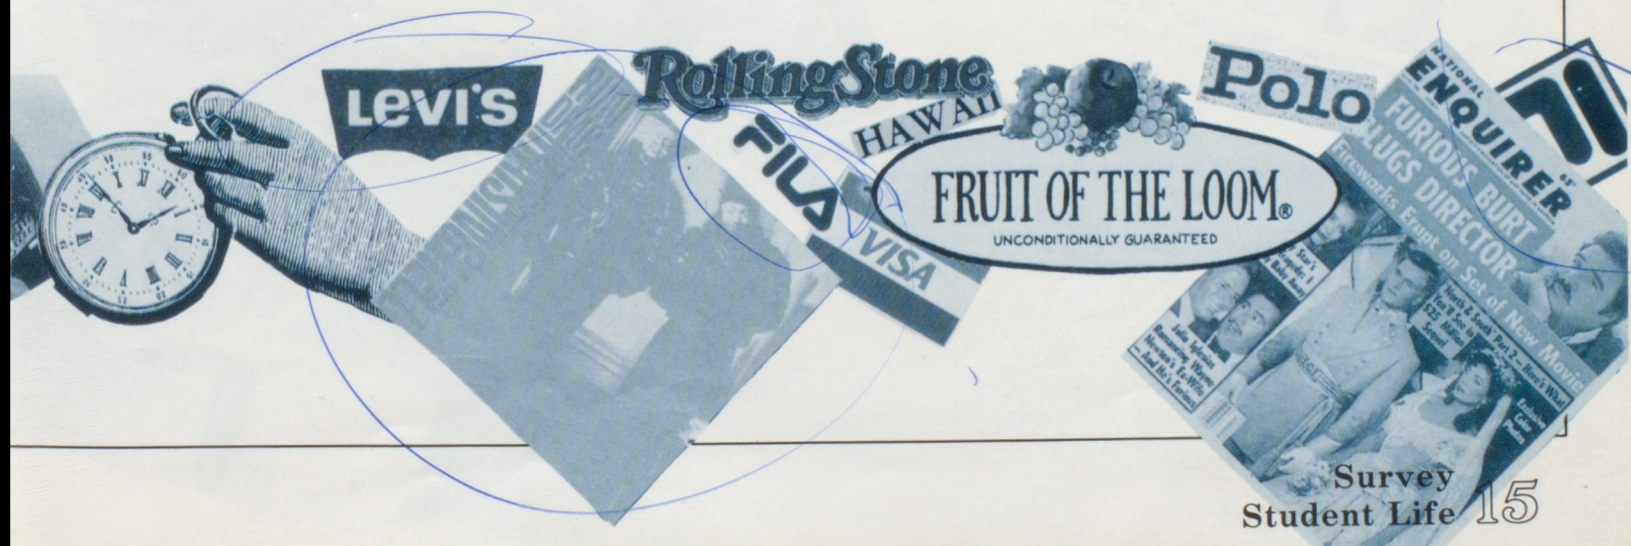

Pilot Pastimes

Sports was polled as the number one hobby for students. Whether playing basketball, volleyball or tennis, students seemed to find enjoyment on the field or court, on campus or off.

Other hobbies listed by students were numerous, from listening to music to going shopping.

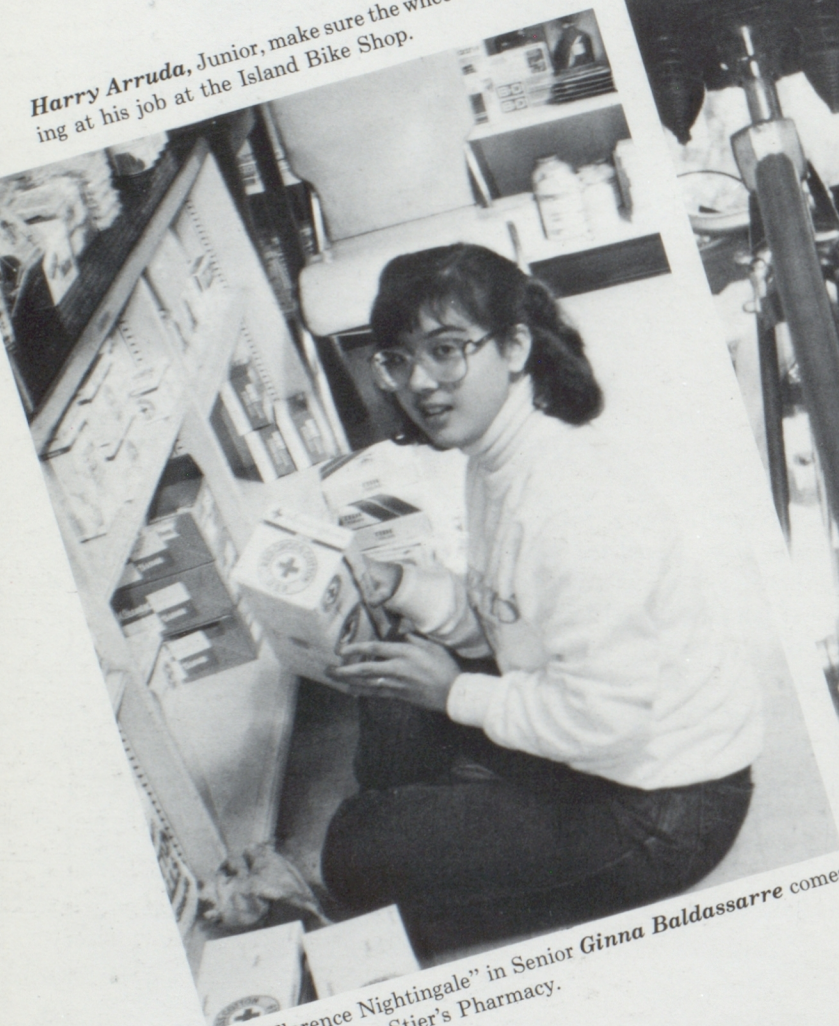

Mimi Moultrie (above) is indulging in one of her favorite hobbies, reading comic books. And you thought she was studying for an exam!

Harry Arruda, Junior, make sure the wheels keep turning at his job at the Island Bike Shop.

The "Florence Nightingale" in Senior Ginna Baldassarre comes out in her job at Stier's Pharmacy.

Outside Safeway, Senior Dave Appezato fulfills his Christian Service requirement by taking a survey for the City of Alameda.

To pay for that BMW

Money

Smiling as he works, Senior cowboy Alvin Sangco attends to the dressing stalls.

It was 7 a.m. on a typical Saturday morning during the school year, and no, not everyone slept in! Alarm clocks were ringing all over Alameda, Oakland and San Leandro as SJND students woke up. They were not rising for an early day on the beach or at Great America; they were not getting up to have a head start shopping in San Francisco or Palo Alto. These industrious students were dragging themselves out of a warm bed to get to work on time.

Dressing up in everything from jeans and sweats to dresses and suits to brown aprons and checkered kerchiefs, the students all worked hard.

Working proved to be an enriching and fulfilling experience for most of the students. Senior Jon French, who worked at Abbey Press 5 days a week explained, "Working matures you and prep?es you for the future. It gives you a sense of responsibility and enables you to have more freedom. You meet new people and learn how to deal with them; you discover talents you never knew you had!"

Students used their hard-earned paychecks in many ways, for tuition, for gas and car insurance and sometimes just for fun.

Eric Dean, Senior, employed at the Lake Merritt Sailboat House, said, "I use my paycheck for clothes and spending money. I also save by putting part of it in the bank."

"Would you like a sugar cone or a plain cone?" asks Senior Margaret Roth at the Velvet Creamery.

Sophomores Tanislaus Gaymon and Monica Murchison participate in one of the many games during Spirit Week.

Juniors show their spirit of the 1960's in music, costume and decorations.

Mark Reynolds shows how mighty the Freshmen are by tugging his way to victory.

We've got

SPRIT

It is necessary for every school to have the obvious things such as desks, books, maps, etc. in order to function. There are, however, some things even more important that a school needs to function successfully, and they are Spirit and Unity.

These qualities were demonstrated loudly and clearly during this year's Spirit Week. Beginning the first week in November, students planned, practiced, painted and prepared for the week of November 17. All the work was worth it, as students got acquainted and showed their support for their class, their school and their teams.

"The week was fun, and it sure united our class," said Senior Stacie Fitzgerald. "It made everyone closer," added Junior Colin Ma.

The 1986/87 Spirit Week winners: the Seniors! They celebrated a special birthday party to go with their theme of "We Just Want to Have Fun!"

Seniors Rico Lyles, Ken Caughell, Roderick Fields and Jay Williams do the "Pee Wee Herman."

Peter Collins, Sophomore, makes a smashing entrance and leads his Class to a victory in the lip synch.

The Sophomores perform one of their award-winning skits; they showed their unity in this special pyramid.

Senior Jaime Corral mimics the infamous Mrs. Luedtke in the Senior skit.

The Juniors lip synch "Don't Leave Me This Way" by the Communards.

How about

YOU?

From the Freshman Panthers to Sophomore Tigers to Junior Knights to Senior Pilots, the spirit of the week was carried out in every detail to fit the theme of "The World of Imagination."

Disney characters, Fifties rockers, birthday partygoers and superheroes competed in the games, skits, stunts and cheering. And the competition was fierce. Many students worked hard on elaborate decorations and special cheers for the five days. "We could even have more spirit if every single person in each class got involved," commented Soph Peter Collins.

The week ended with Unity Day and the introduction of the cheerleaders, basketball players and the winners of the Spirit Week trophy: the Seniors! Seniors also won sportsmanship, skit, lip Synch; the Juniors won decorations and spirit; and the Sophomores won parade, lip synch and stunts.

The Freshmen show their spirit and ask "How about you?"

Emmett Fahey, Senior, surfs his way through the raging waters (on the SJ gym stage??).

Juniors parade into the gym Western style—Do Si Do!

Say Boo! Spooky Juniors Peter Mazor and Salvador Nevel go all out for Halloween.

Sophs Linda Jaber, Monique Bissonnette, Jenny Guidera display the true Halloween spirit.

N ot just for little kids

Boo

Juniors Kristin Yorba, Maggie Doyle, and La Coby Phillips take a break from the laser lights and pounding beat in the gym.

Official campus flower child Mr. Philip Gravem wishes us all a psychedelic Halloween.

Head cheerleader Mrs. Elizabeth Norris, shows Mrs. Fonzeno the spirit of Halloween.

After October 31, 1986, we could officially say that Halloween was no longer a holiday just for little kids. SJND students enthusiastically participated in the costume and pumpkin carving contests and the Halloween Dance that ended the night.

Many characters, unusual, literary, religious and scary, could be seen on campus and at the dances. Instead of students and teachers, we had gypsies, flappers, convicts, Sherlock Holmes and a refugee from the 60's.

Senior Ruelvis Alonga fulfilled a religious calling by becoming a pope for the night; and Sophs Brenda Cavanaugh and Joan Ouittman were farmers.

All were able to kick up their heels that night, moving to the beat of Dynamic Sounds.

As 10:20 chimed, the spell was broken; everyone's pumpkin turned into a carriage and all drove away!

Facing the facts

Study

Studying at a desk without a television or a radio on, studying in the dining room under a parent's watchful eye or at the library in silence are ways and places students should study. However, with busy social and work schedules, many SJND students have to study where and when they can. And they have found themselves in some very unusual study situations.

Sophomore Lisa Johnson said, "I did homework once sitting on the roof of my house, sunbathing at the same time."

"Sitting on the hood of my car while waiting for a friend," Senior Janell Brown remembers as the most unusual place she studied this year.

Junior Michele Spane remembers, "I had to study algebra in the car on the way to Lake Tahoe once. My dad said I better know it by the time we got there!"

"I studied while listening to the radio, hanging out my window watching the guys go by," said Freshman Michelle Thomas.

With many students working at night and on weekends, homework often has to be fit in at odd moments. Senior Philip Cruce explained, "I've often done homework while at work at Croll's Pizza." And Senior Quaker Winget said, "When I'm pushed I did my homework in break room at Safeway."

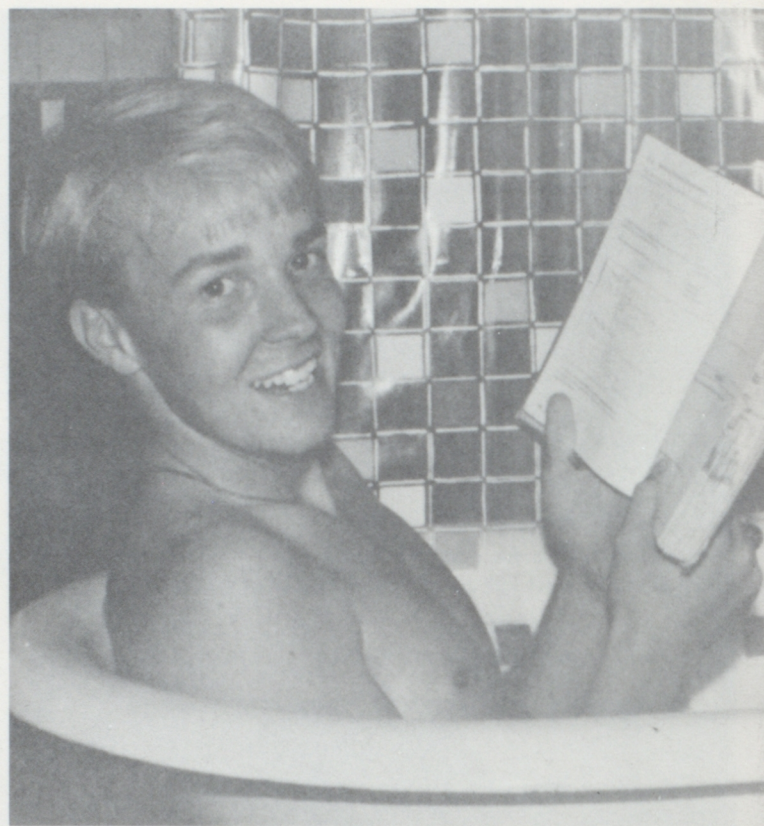

Holidays may not be the ideal time to study, but for some Pilots it was necessary. "I wrote a composition for English on a plane going to New York," said Senior Percival Molina.

And Senior Todd Mosley said his most unusual study spot was . . . "the library"!!

Wherever they were and whatever the occasion, SJND students knew how to use their time well. They may not have chosen the most ideal ways and places to study, but they did study!

Junior Todd Rabbach relaxes in the bath tub while studying for a test.

Suzanne Algarva, Junior, shows us how to do homework in the perfect study setting.

Frosh boys find time to study during lunch for a fifth period test.

Finding time in his busy schedule, Junior Eric McClain studies for a U.S. history test.

The Chronicle

Close-Up another success

The White House, Capitol Hill, the Smithsonian, Georgetown—places in the news. From Nov. 30 to Dec. 6, 1986, seven SJND students got a CLOSE-UP view of these places and others in Washington D.C.

The trip included seminars, debates and workshops on topics from international relations to censorship to colonial court cases.

The hundreds of students from all over the United States were given extensive tours of everything from government buildings, memorials and monuments to colonial Williamsburg, Virginia.

Junior John Molinari explained his view, "Close-Up was a great experience in understanding the functions of the branches of our government. Of course, tearing our hotel room apart after bed check was fun, too!"

Participant Angie Fong, Senior, added, "It was a good experience because we met a lot of new people with funny accents and learned about our government." Then she added with a smile, "But the best part was the week's vacation from school!"

Bye CAL Hi ESAL

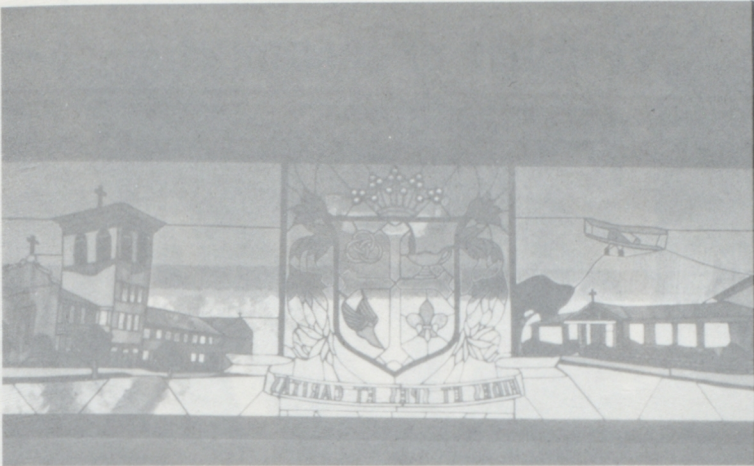

St. Joseph Notre Dame was part of the new East Shore Athletic League (ESAL) this year.

SJND continued to compete against many schools from the CAL, Bishop O'Dowd, St. Mary's, Salesian, St. Elizabeth, Holy Names and Presentation. This elite group was joined by three public schools, Encinal, Albany and Piedmont.

"It was challenging this first year because we got to play teams we never did before," said Senior Rico Lyles.

The Close-Up group: Chantelle Thomas, Mr. Phil Gravem, Ginna Baldassarre, Angie Fong, Paula Marcheschi, John Molinari, Linda Quittman and Anne Cronin.

Through the looking glass

The soft, colorful glow of light on stained glass was noticed by everyone who entered the front door of SJND this year. Students first thought that the window, which depicts the schools, the SJND emblem and a plane to represent the Pilots, was just a part of the campus beautification program.

In reality the window is a memorial to Carol Bolwell and her valiant effort to overcome a disease that eventually ended her life.

Carol, a junior at the time, will be remembered not only by her fellow students, but also in the stained glass window lovingly created by her father, Mr. Alan Bolwell.

Christian Service

In September, SJND adopted the Christian Service Program. This project, which is also being initiated by other schools in the Diocese, is designed to teach students to give a little of themselves to others and to recognize people in the community who need help. The program requires each student to do volunteer work for a total of 10 hours each year as a graduation requirement.

"It teaches students about life, about caring for others in a way you can't learn from a book," explained Mr. Terrence Dugan, who moderated the program with Mr. Ron Travers and Sister Elizabeth Mary.

This year students did such work as volunteering at Alameda Hospital, helping with Carousel Capers, a carnival to benefit those with cerebral palsy, teaching reading to adults and working at a camp for the handicapped.

"We learned about our community firsthand rather than by other people telling us," explained senior Rosette Gray.

And Junior Lisa Lomba said, "I had a good job as a volunteer at the hospital; I not only helped them but they taught me a practical skill too."

"We learned about our community firsthand - Rosette Gray, Senior"

The drive to help

"As a 'family,' SJND students try to lend a helping hand when they can," said Senior Percival Molina. This helping hand is not only extended to other students but also the local community.

The Campus Ministry sponsored three drives this year—a Thanksgiving Food Drive, a Christmas Toy Drive and the Blood Drive in the spring.

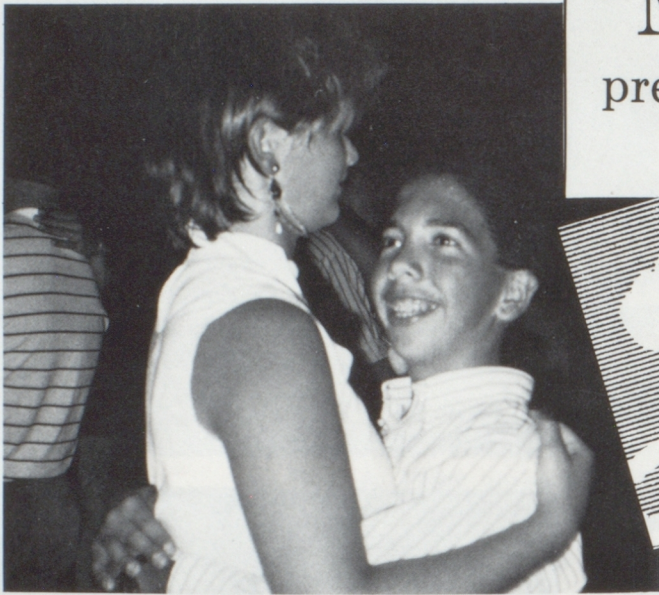

"The drives were very successful due to generous student support and contributions" said Mr. Ron Travers, head of Campus Ministry.

Senior Shundra Phillips (below) does her part for the Toy Drive.

Junior Lynn Sickenger is wondering, "Where does it say how to turn it on??"

SJND wasn't all fun and games! The purpose of school 5 days a week, 7 hours a day? Academics, of course. Despite all the action on campus, the faculty, administrators and even most students never let anyone forget why we were here.

SJND emphasized the importance of a solid education; and the students, from budding scientists to computer whizzes, took advantage of it.

ORT

he fine art of learning

Once upon a time in the wonderful world of SJND, artists and orators abounded . . . or so the story goes.

With great thanks to the Department of Education, students beginning with the Class of 1989 are required to complete courses in the fine arts. For the Pilots, this means speech and art classes.

Instructing the Sophomores in the art of effective speech was veteran teacher Ms. Georgia Vlahos, and she made the class fun and informative. "Speech has got to be the best class I've ever had!" commented Antonio Galindo. And Greg Fanucchi added, "I learned about more than just effective speech; I learned about the views of more people."

A semester of art was also a requirement for the Sophs. This class, also offered as an elective to Juniors and Seniors, was taught by Ms. Kate Reynolds. The Pilots learned everything from finger painting to sculpting. "Art class was really great because I could express myself through my work," explained Soph Monica Murchison.

The new requirement was well received this year. Students enjoyed themselves while being exposed to two major areas of the arts. Who knows? SJND may just be the training ground for famous artists and speechmakers of the future!

Senior Kate Millosovich works on a lino-cut plate in her elective art class.

Soph Chris Davis does a great pantomime of a girl reacting to the Chris Davis smooth approach.

Monica Murchison, Sophomore, gets her clay box ready for firing.

Soph Robert Rowley really gets into his work! He was working on a small clay figure.

Junior Maggie Doyle is transforming lineoleum into a plate which will print like a stamp in her elective art class.

As Bruce Lee in this pantomime, Soph Manny Casey is able to fight and overcome a whole gang.

Frosh Miriam Borelli practices her life-saving techniques learned in a special CPR course during P.E.

Seniors Rosette Gray and Janell Brown present a puppet show of one of the "Canterbury Tales."

Creative class projects

What do students and teachers do to break up the monotonous daily routine of stuffy classrooms conjugating past perfect verbs and solving quadratic equations? They come up with special projects which make learning fun.

One special assignment took place in Madame Susan Abrahami's French I class. Students created commercials to promote original products. Some advertised laundry detergent, other peddled dijon mustard and expensive perfumes, while others tried to sell computer equipment—all in French, of course.

The French III class performed skits about what they planned to do after high school. They also attended the play "The Little Prince," which they read in class afterward.

Mrs. Mary Ann Luedtke's Senior English classes were studying the origins of literature. To make Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" come alive, the classes performed different skits and puppet shows. "It was difficult to put together a presentation, but after it was finished I knew a lot more," said Paul Gomez.

Coach Frank LaPorte's U.S. History classes had a chance to demonstrate superior knowledge when they played "College Bowl."

Freshman P.E. classes this year had lessons in Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR), and every student who passed the exam received a certificate. "It is really helpful to know CPR because you could save someone's life in case of an emergency," said Liz Tapado.

Who know what could be next? Binomial Bingo? Geometric Jeopardy? SJND students and teachers can think of anything!

Juniors John Molinari and Steve Lubeck practice their mad scientist routines in chemistry class.

Emergency on campus? Dial F-R-O-S-H!!

French III students see "The Little Prince." They are Sunny Choi, Jasper Lee, Maurice White-Kelly, Grace Ebron, Hiraneory Ar-rona, Changelle Thomas, Sally Haims, Lisa Lomba, Matt Campbell, Mai Vu, Lucie Wang and Jeff Mihaly.

S tudents elect special classes

E-lek'tiv 1) that which may be chosen but is not required; 2) an optional course in a school curriculum. SJND upperclassmen had the chance to take elective courses in yearbook/journalism, drafting and computer science this year.

Yearbook/journalism was the only zero period class. Seventeen dedicated students got to school at 7:45 a.m. in order to learn about news and feature writing, interviewing, graphics and yearbook design. After lessons the first quarter, the students became the staff of both Reflections and Kaleidoscope. "It was hard to get to class on time, but I was proud to be part of the staff," said Junior Suzanne Algarva.

It took a great deal of work and cooperation to meet the monthly deadlines. "I had a very good staff this year. They were not only hard working but also very talented," commented Miss Christine Micheli, advisor.

Drafting, taught by Mr. Robert Sickenger, is a course designed to teach students basic properties of mechanical structure and architecture. Using professional equipment, the students created precise diagrams and sketches of machines and machine parts. "I learned a great deal about perspective and also to be more disciplined and precise," said Bronwyn Emery, Junior.

Computer science introduced basic computing techniques to students interested in pursuing careers in computers or for those who just wanted to be prepared for the future. "It's a good course to take because in the future nearly the whole world will be computerized," commented Junior Diane Anderson.

Michele Spane learns to type in preparation for the inevitable Junior term paper.

Members of the yearbook/newspaper staff work late into the afternoon to meet the final deadline.

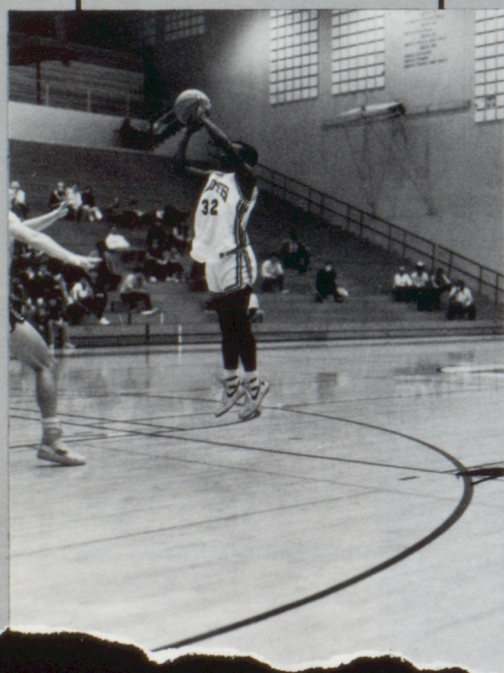

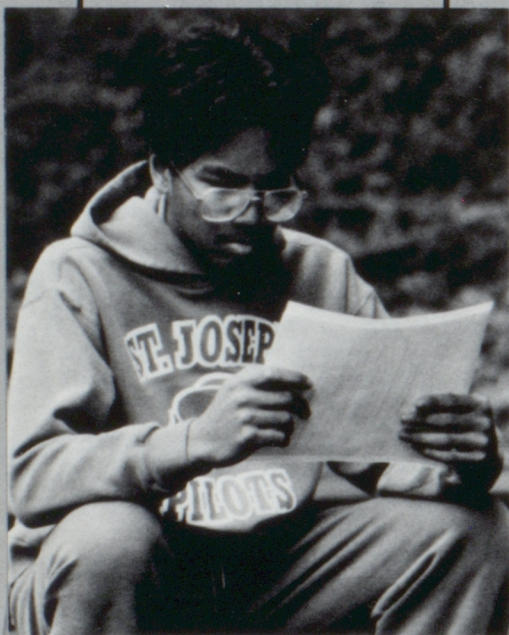

John Da Eira, Senior, uses his talents in drafting class.

Senior Paul Torres punches in his latest program in computer science class.

Junior Alan Perucho checks the schedule for the next cross-country meet.

Senior Jay Williams shows his All-League form during ESAL playoffs.

Unforgettable

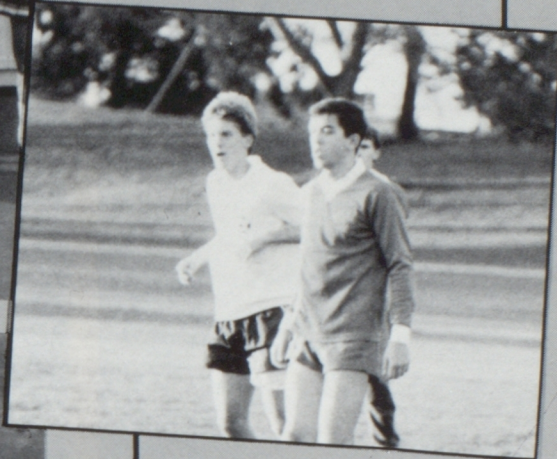

S k

The 1986/87 varsity song-girls????

Pilot runners join in the race for glory and fame.

Senior Tom Sareeram casually takes the game in stride.

From cross-country to basketball to baseball, the Pilot athletes showed tremendous skill! The action was never dull as games were won in the final seconds or extra innings.

The Pilot Hanger was home for winning teams and team members with spirit and determination. The crowds of fans and Pilot supporters were full of enthusiasm and encouragement. For all teams and fans, the 1986/87 school year was one to be proud of!

Agony is written all over Senior Dave Appezzato's face as he strives for the finish.

Being a harrier takes a lot of hard work, but it's worth it.
Shawn Persyn, Junior

Happy harriers in action: fun on the run

Breathlessly running on beaches, mountain trails and city sidewalks, the cross country teams persistently practiced day after day. The teams, two varsity and one junior varsity, mostly set their goals on finishing and having a great time.

While hard at work at practices and meets, Mimi Moultrie, Junior, kept herself going by singing a song to herself while running. Junior John Dames said, "I didn't really think about anything, I just followed the guy in front of me and tried to pass him!"

Soph Victor Avilla set goals for himself at the beginning of each race. "I tried to concentrate on getting physically and mentally prepared each time," he said.

Why does a sport that takes so much work and energy draw so many enthusiastic, dedicated students? "The thing that stimulates me to run is when I think that I'm out there representing the school and myself. Then I can go faster and do my best," said Antonio Galindo, Sophomore.

Senior Linda Quittman voiced the opinion of many team members: "It's all the people on the team and our coach, Mr. Coakley, who make it all fun!"

Junior Ruben Briones moves out in front of the other runners and puts the Pilots in the lead.

Full of confidence, Sophomore David Robillard makes his move to pass the other harriers.

Sophomore Joan Quittman, Junior Mary Rozowski and Senior Angie Fong back up each other to endure the long run.

Determined and dedicated

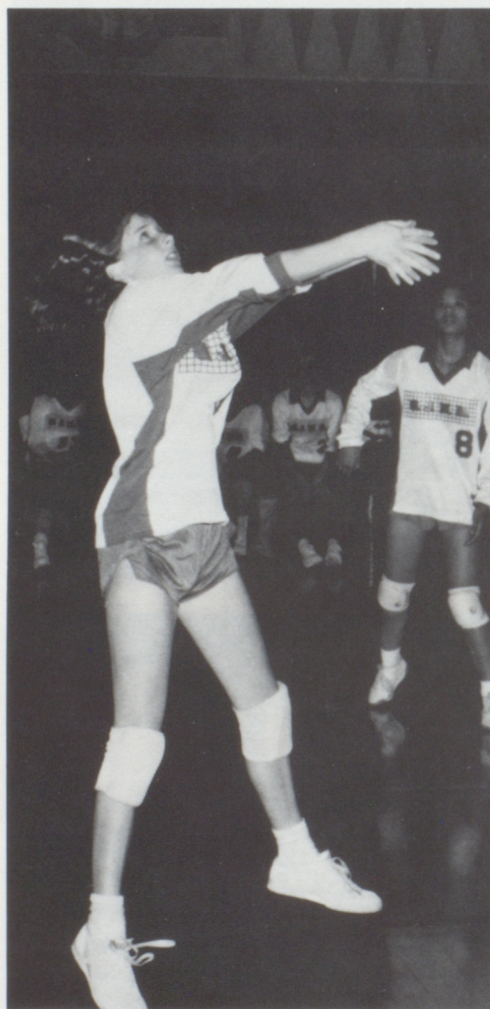

A whistle sounded and all eyes became fixed upon a ball whizzing through the air. It flew over the net where it was passed, set and hit with as much determination as the teams' hope to win the games that afternoon.

The teams, the 1986 Pilot volleyball varsity and JV squads, proved to be hard-working units that valued the importance of teamwork and dedication. "Everybody was nice, so we got along and cooperated with each other," said Senior Shundra Phillips.

Daily practices and a determined coach helped with the players' improvement. Alumna Coach Mary Kinney Sims encouraged the girls and pulled them together. She remarked, "They improved 110 percent. They not only showed me, but also themselves, that they could push their talents to the limit."

Coach Sims stressed concentration and communication. Soph Michelle Ybarra explained, "I thought about where the ball was going and my position on the court. I thought about being aggressive and working together with my team as a collective unit."

"Up, up, and away!" exclaims Sophomore Terina Smith as she determinedly jumps in front of the net to block.

We had a lot of spirit and unity, and we put in a lot of effort. Even if we didn't win, we always kept our hopes up and tried to win. Belinda Branson, Junior

This year we had team leaders who gave us inspiration and encouragement, and we succeeded. Jonas DeLeon, Sophomore

Senior Rafael Perez-Zapata awaits a thirst quencher from Junior Todd Rabbach during a tense game early in the season.

New outlook Motivates team

This year's soccer team was different for many reasons. For the first time in SJND history, women and men were combined on one team. Also, more students than ever signed up, in fact, more sign-ups than there were uniforms!

And this season's team also had a new philosophy, a new outlook and new talent.

"We had a 3-point goal: discipline, unity and toughness," explained Coach Leon Aksionczyk. "If we had discipline, mentally and physically, then we had unity. With unity we had toughness and durability."

The team's strongest point, according to Junior John Dames, was their spirit. "Most of the time we didn't mind a loss since we were there mostly to have fun!"

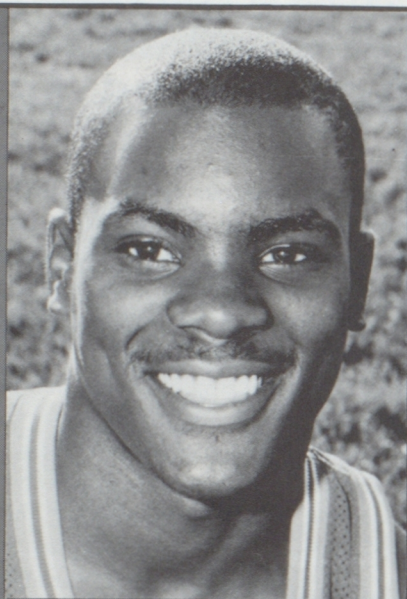

Another strength was their defense. Senior Leland McNeely said, "We had a combination of strong fullbacks and a talented line of halfbacks."

And the addition of women added a new dimension and a new strength to the team. "I think having us on the team added a new excitement, even though on the playing field we were all equal," said Soph Monique Bissonnette.

Alex Yann passes the ball to a teammate as the opposition approaches.

Ruben Briones heads the ball as the referee watches carefully.

The varsity basketball team was on top this year because of talent and attitude. Eric Dean, Senior Pilots Calvin Byrd, Sophomore, and Rico Lyles, Senior, watch as other teammates fight for the ball.

Coach Frank LaPorte anticipates his upcoming battle in ESAL play.

A super team: Mucho Pilots!

"Two, two, we want two!" and that's exactly what the men's varsity basketball team gave the fans everytime they cheered. Once again the Pilots did their school proud.

This year's team started off with a bang by beating the Pilots' arch-enemy O'Dowd. Guard Jay Williams shot for a basket just before the clock ran out to give the Pilots the one-point win. "I felt good, not because I made the point but because we beat O'Dowd!"

The Pilots were now ready to surge into the remainder of the season with few problems. In fact the team ranked first in the East Bay and held first place in the league.

The Pilots were led by Soph Calvin Byrd, but he was far from the only star. Other standouts were the guard tandem of Seniors Jay Williams and Ted Langowski, and the solid frontline play of Junior Damion McMiller and Senior Rico Lyles.

The team also had a deep bench this year. The talents of Juniors Larry Smith, Ricky Sanchez, La Coby Phillips and Phil Moodie combined with the skills of Seniors Eric Dean, Ken Caughell, Erik Stone and Dante Thornton to lead to Pilot success.

The team always had the winning spirit, and this year they added team effort. As Manager Dave Appezzato, Senior, said, "This is the best TEAM we've had since I've been here."

Junior Larry Smith looks for another Pilot as they get ready to shoot for two.

"What happened to the ball?" asks Junior Damion McMiller in an intense game against St. Mary's.

Two teams show good year

JV: great combination

The J.V. basketball team had another fine year, under Coach Gordon Johnson.

The Johnson "dynasty" proved too much for the competition as the Pilots brought home win after win.

This year's squad was led by Juniors James Carter and Maurice White-Kelly. Their experience showed on the court.

Two other standouts were Freshman Sinua Phillips and Sophomore Manny Casey. Sinua showed great maturity in his play, and Manny led the team in blocked shots and scores.

The team worked well together. "It felt great being part of this squad, and I'm glad we had a winning season," said Soph Alberto Garcia.

Spirit plus skill plus team effort equals WINS, as the JV team proved.

Frosh: a quick start

Quick as a flash the freshman basketball squad took to the courts for win after win this year.

And quick really is the right word for these players. "Most of their offense came from their defense, due to the extreme quickness of these young players," said Coach Frank LaPorte, athletic director.

They were also a very intelligent team. "They picked up the plays quickly and could adjust on the court," said their coach Jose Carabello.

The best outside shooter on the team was Marcus White-Kelley, and top scorers were Kevin Serpanchy and Daniel Evans.

These Frosh, playing together for the first time, proved both strong and effective as a unit. "I think we worked very well together this year," commented Marcus.

Manny Casey leaps to get an important rebound for the JV squad.

SJND Cheerleaders Strut their stuff

What was blue and orange and had 32 legs on the SJND campus this year? Answer: The Varsity and JV cheerleading squads!

Our cheerleading squads showed their enthusiasm and support for the Pilots by boosting spectator spirit.

Varsity Captain Rochelle Tocchini, Senior, said, "Cheerleading gave me the opportunity to have fun while promoting school spirit!"

JV Co-Captain Michelle Ybarra, Sophomore, enthusiastically said, "We had a terrific season! We had fun, got along and learned a lot. Cheerleading is a great activity."

Give 3 cheers for the JV squad! They were great at building Pilot spirit at the games.

Being put to the test, the Varsity squad shows that they are the best!

Spirit check! Senior La Tanya St. Charles and Junior Maggie Doyle yell, "We've got spirit, how about YOU?"

Cheerleading is fun and it has its rewards, but it is a lot of hard work! Stacy Firebaugh, Sophomore

Our true fans stand by us!!

It is now down to the last seconds of the game. From the stands, a wave of ear-piercing screams and cheers echo through the gym. And the source of this very vocal encouragement is the group of fans who regularly show up to see their team strive for the wins.

So what do these students actually consider their roles to be as fans? Some, such as Freshmen Brenda Finnell and Nicole Mazor explain that they root for the basketball team to raise school spirit. To do that, Brenda, Nicole and many of their friends enthusiastically cheer during the games.

And Sophomore Sherell Lewis explained, "We had a winning team, and it's good to let our friends from other schools know how good our school is!"

Pep Club President Janell Brown, Senior, models the latest in SJND fan fashions.

Soph Brian Cavalli rallies the Pilot fans into a rousing cheer of victory.

Number One Pilot Anthony Aiello, principal, is surrounded by loyal parents, friends and students at the home game against O'Dowd.

Applauding yet another basket, fans show their appreciation of Pilot skill and determination.

The frantic cheers of the crowd do nothing to disturb Sophomore Robert Rowley's concentration on the game.

I 've been watching Pilot basketball for over 20 years, and I'm fiercely loyal to them!"

"Oh, darn, I'm on the beach again," thinks Brian Smith during practice on the Alameda course.

April showers bring May flowers and SJND spring sports! The Pilots had barely begun practice on the baseball field, in the pool, and on the golf or track courses when the Reflections staff had their last deadline.

However, it was already evident in early March that the Pilot athletes were looking good. The seasons ahead looked hopeful and spirits were high. "I looked forward to swimming to get in shape and win," said Junior Maurice White-Kelley.

Life in the fast lane

It is 6:15 in the morning, the beginning of a whole new day. All through the city the neighborhoods are still and quiet. However, going down to the Encinal pool lively outbursts are heard amidst the peaceful surroundings as a dedicated team of SJND swimmers troop to daily practices.

Soph Jenny Allgoewer enthusiastically remarked, "Getting up for practice that early is a great challenge, but it's all worth it."

Despite obstacles, such as the early practice, no home pool and brand new swimmers, the spirit was high on this spring team. As Junior Mark Singer said, "I'm glad to have an opportunity to compete on the SJND swim team."

"We're working hard and working well under a good coach." Greg Fanucchi, Sophomore

This year's track team faced a season filled with fierce competition, but with dominant runners like Junior Ruben Briones, the team faced these challenges valiantly.

Veterans aided in the struggle to defeat some of the powerhouses in the new league: Sophomores Monique Bissonnette, Susan Henrickson and David Robillard and Junior Alan Perucho.

This small team had to overcome the stress of large numbers of opposing runners. Coach Morris Soublet helped them do this through "practice everyday of the week and conditioning work at the beach."

And their goal? "To strive for victory and still have fun!" said Coach Soublet.

Outstanding in their fields

With the promise of its players' enthusiasm, the golf team started their season with style. Golf was not only going to provide a recreational activity but also a taste of the good life.

"I think of golf as a calm and relaxing sport," remarked Frosh golfer Oscar Alvarez.

However, no matter how relaxing golf can be, as players walk through scenic courses, it also takes a lot of hard work. Practices were held often at Alameda Golf Course.

Coach Frank LaPorte expressed some disappointment about the competition. "I don't like having only a few teams in the league. The golfers need more practice matches, and they don't have enough competition."

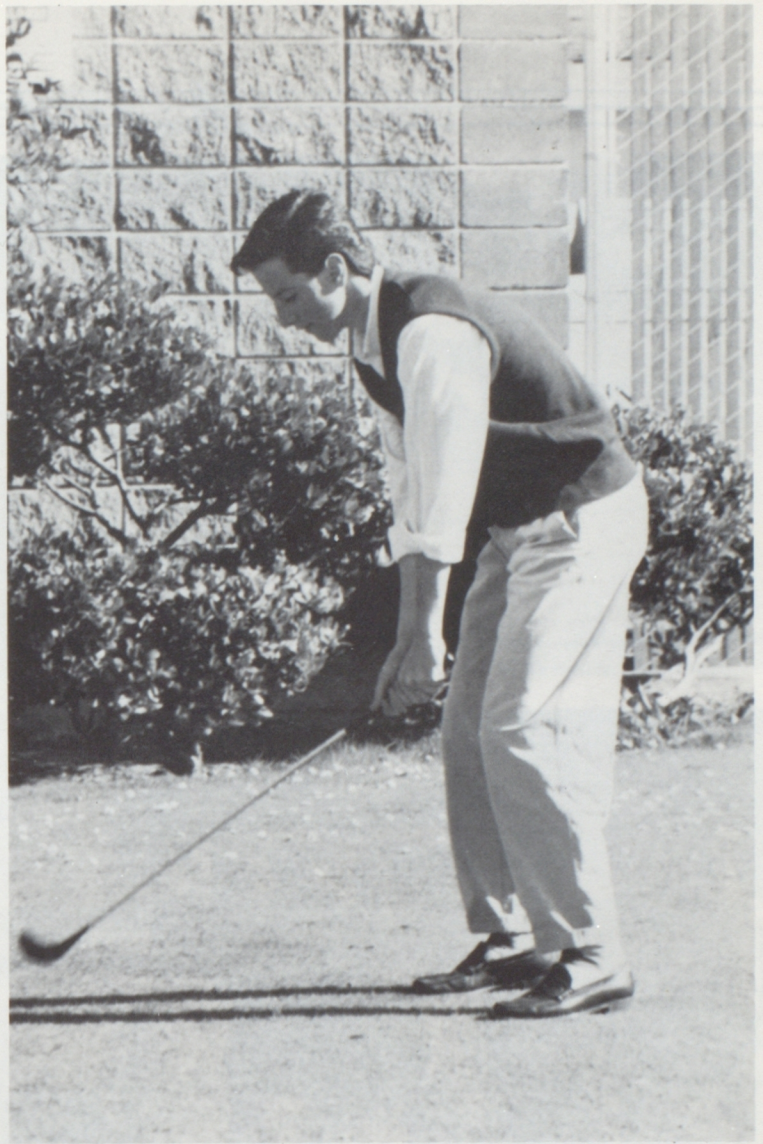

"I know we'll have fun because we have a lot of good personalities on the team!" Quaker Winet, Senior.

"Well, it's a girl's version of baseball but with a bigger ball," explained Sophomore Monica Murchison as she described one of her favorite sports. "It's a real hitter!"

Monica and her equally enthusiastic teammates could be playing no other sport than softball in the spring.

Led by Coach Frank Speltz, the girls have clearly found a way to spend their afternoons! As the "twins" of the team, Junior Belinda Branson and Senior Quaker Winget said, "Softball is our favorite sport and we have fun! It's so cool that people think it's easy, but it's really a hard job."

And the work will pay off. "I know we'll have a good season because we all try out best," said Stacey Firebaugh.

Oscar Alvarez and Karen Price, Freshmen, are ready to take off for their spring ESAL competition.

SPRING Diamonds are the guys' best friend

At the end of a busy school day, some students find themselves with nothing to do. One group, however, not only had an activity to fill up their afternoons but also managed to have fun in the process; members of the JV baseball team.

These team members started practice in the spring with a very positive attitude. "I think we have a really good team with a lot of experience," said Frosh Andy Curtin. And Mario Trevion, Freshman, said, "I wanted to be on the team because I like the way people try their best to win."

Veteran John Molinari, Junior, added, "Our main goal is to play intensely and, while having fun, win as many games as possible."

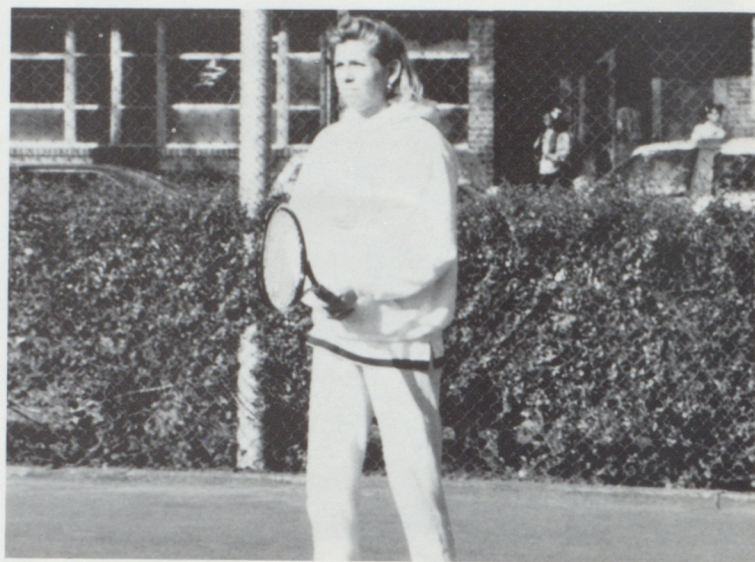

"We have a lot of confidence, but we have to put it to use and work together." Jon French, Senior

To the students of SJND, spring sports are the best part of the second semester. In anticipation of baseball season, the guys broke in their gloves in practice for the official games to start.

Like all other sports, this year, baseball fell under the newly formed ESAL. Jon French, Senior, said, "The new league will help us since the new teams don't pose the same threat that the CAL did." On the other hand, Senior Kirk McHenry said, "We don't really know how the new teams will play so it's going to be a real challenge."

And they were ready to meet the challenge. "Our team has a lot of talent; and if you combine talent with the desire to win, you have the Pilots!" said Soph Brian Cavalli.

SPRING

Members of the supreme court

There were two separate teams, playing at two different times of the year who had the very same goal: winning tennis matches.

The women's tennis team, playing in the fall, and the men's in the spring both worked under Coach George Peterson and practiced at Franklin Park.

After a loss to Alameda High in a practice match early in the season, the team began to work in earnest to get ready for league play.

After much hard work and a long season, the team finished second in the ESAL, losing only to Piedmont. "We had a very good year, the best ever," said Senior Jane Jennings. And Soph Cince Devin added, "We sure were a lot better than last year!"

"We worked well as a team; that's why we were successful." Jane Jennings, Senior

The team ended their season with a look to the future. "They will be even stronger next year because there was only one Senior leaving, me!" said Jane.

In February the men started practicing for their season. The team started with high hopes of doing very well. Veteran player Percy Molina, Senior, said, "I think we should do well in this new league, but we have to work hard as a team and support one another to win our matches."

And Junior Fitzroy Rush also looked ahead. "We have a good chance of earning a reputation as THE team to beat," he said.

CE S

Pilot Srs.

Being a Pilot Senior can mean many things. Some are very simple, such as being privileged to walk to Chestnut-Encinal Market at lunch, or grow mustaches for the men or wear yellow or grey blouses for the women. It also means the Senior Ball, Grad Nite and Graduation. It means sentimental moments, funny, sad and meaningful. It means going to your last Pilot basketball game as a student and the last high school dance. It means playing Senior pranks and surviving the punishment!

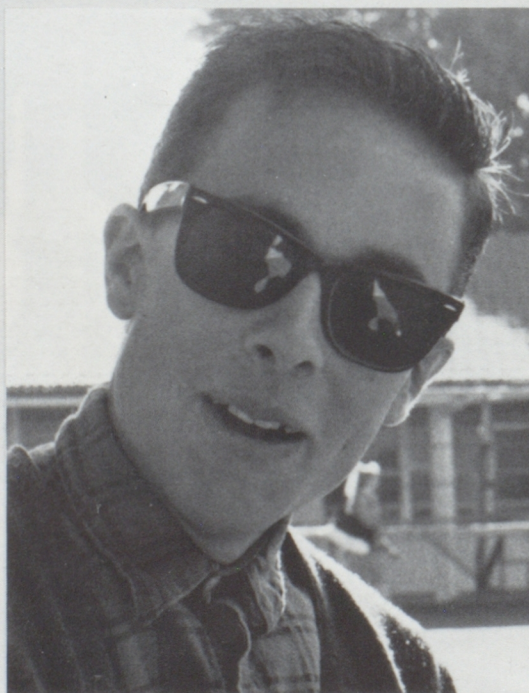

For the Class of 1987 it meant unity, working together and co-operating enough to win its final Spirit Week.

But most importantly it means being an example. It's a time when one becomes a symbol—a SENIOR. Oohh. It's a last chance to strive for the best and show the school what you can do. Being a Pilot Senior is also a responsibility, to teach the Juniors the ropes, to show Freshmen what's in store for them and to show Sophomores how to act, well, cool.

It also means a year of good-byes-participating in high school activities one last time. It means preparation to leave your school "family" and start all over again. Fortunately, being an SJND Senior means you leave taking with you many good memories.

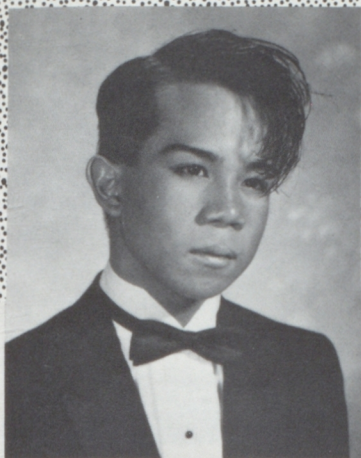

"Come to St. Joe's and you will see that we're just one big happy family," say Seniors Luz Nevel and Angie Lopez.

"Being a Pilot Senior has been great—especially seeing the class come together and win Spirit Week," says Dave Appezzato.

"It's like being in an elite group. You take pride in being a Pilot when you're a Senior," explains Paul Torres.

. . . Seniors

From the first day of privileges to the three G's— Growing up, GradNite and Graduation—Senior year is filled with new experiences. The Class of 1987 found a sense of unity and determination to make the year both worthwhile and fun. Said Alex Trevigne, "It was a time to think about the future but still have FUN!"

Senior Class officers for 1986/87 Dave Appezzato, La Tanya St. Charles, Tom Sareeram, Anne Cronin and Linda Quittman.

Salute the officers

The Senior Class officers worked hard to bring unity and spirit to their class.

President Dave Appezzato explained, "We tried to promote unity by getting everyone involved."

Vice-president La Tanya St. Charles added, "We tried to bring more organization to the class and to the Student Council."

Secretary-treasurer Linda Quittman said, "We tried to get ideas from people who had not been involved in the past."

Homeroom Rep Anne Cronin added, "We wanted the class to feel like they had some power in the Student Council."

Homeroom Rep Tom Sareeram concluded, "We worked harder to get more of the Student Body involved this year."

When I grow up . . .

"What do I want to be when I grow up?" This question has puzzled people for years. When we were younger, we dreamed of being firemen, or, if we were lucky, one of the Superfriends! But as we get older, we have more serious goals.

Some Seniors already know what they want to be. Ana Kirola said, "I want to become a psychologist for teens." Cindy Labaniego said, "I want to be a computer electrical engineer, work in real estate and start my own business." Philip Cruce wants to be an auto mechanic. Sheila Eugenio is going to become a dentist. And Ana-Veronica Garcia said, "I want to be an architect."

Adj ...

"Amazing!" exclaimed Jill Gonzalez. This is just one adjective that Seniors used to describe their class. Angie Lopez said, "Our class was striving for more this year than any other." "Flamboyant!" was the word Dwayne Lee used, while Janelle Brown simply said "Jolly!"

Adj ...

Senior homeroom moderators Miss Castellanos and Mr. Speltz had adjectives of their own for the Seniors. "They were positive and enthusiastic," said Miss Castellanos. Mr. Speltz added, "The Senior Class was fresh. They had a lot of spirit and creativity."

What would I do different?

A few Seniors were asked, "If you could start your high school years over, what would you do different?" Here's what they had to say.

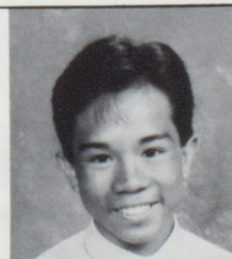

"I would have studied much more Freshman and Sophomore years. but I showed 'em Junior and Senior years!" Emmett Fahey

"I wouldn't have dressed like a goon Freshman year." Scott Vosburg

"I'd concentrate on studying; I wouldn't have a job after school and I'd party more." Quaker Winget

"If I would have known about Aqua Net back then, life would have been a lot easier." Ruelvis Alonga

I don't believe it but this actually happened to me!!

Let's recap those moments when we've all wanted to run into a corner and never show our faces again. Well, a few "sophisticated" Seniors have revealed their most embarrassing moments.

Paula Marcheschi remembers her most dreadful moment as the time she found herself sitting at the bottom of the stairs in Marianist Hall, completely embarrassed yet laughing hysterically.

Eliza Sonza told of how she thought that getting up in front of the entire class and saying the Pledge of Allegiance was the worst thing in the world.

And Shundra Phillips recounts being kicked from behind and landing with a BOOM and a SCREAM.

Senior Paula Marcheschi smiles in embarrassment at the bottom of the stairs!

Class officers unite!

This year's Junior Class officers, President John Campbell, Vice-President Sally Haims and Secretary-Treasurer Helen Jun accomplished a lot in a short time.

They set goals for themselves at the beginning of the year. "One primary goal was to get our class involved in school activities," said Sally. They agreed that this goal was obtainable but would take hard work since the class was the largest in the school.

Sally explained the methods they used to reach this goal. "We worked on committees and with other classes to hear their opinions." John added, "We tried our best to keep the class informed of all activities."

Their work paid off. For example, during Spirit Week the class was united and more Juniors than ever participated.

Preparing for the future

This year's Junior Class was well on its way to success. Knowing that success is only possible through careful preparation, the Juniors got themselves ready for the future in college preparatory classes. They also looked ahead about what colleges they might attend.

When asked how they prepared themselves individually, a wide range of answers was given.

Steve Lubeck said, "I try to get the best grades I can. I've also been sending for information from colleges and plan to visit some campuses."

Colin Ma said, "I'm deciding what I want to do and then will choose the best college for that field. I will take into consideration the climate, atmosphere and cost."

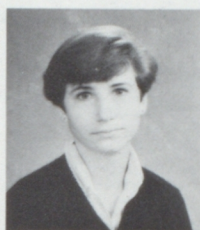

Most Juniors plan to go to college and list the University of San Francisco, Santa Clara and U.C. Berkeley as first choices. As Tom Sprott said, "I sure don't plan on waiting. I'm going straight to college after high school!"

Lucie Wang and Mimi Moultrie find something amusing in class.

Sophs take charge!

This year's Sophomore Class had much to be proud of. They accomplished a great deal under the able leadership of President Mylene Perdiguerra, Vice-President Susan Henrickson, Secretary/Treasurer Dulce Zamora and homeroom representatives Steve Ghio, Sophie Gonzales and Mike Reynolds. With class officers like these, the Sophomores couldn't go wrong!

Being an officer is a busy job, having meetings before and after school and often at lunch. And with this job comes responsibility. "Students want to be informed about their class funds; it is my responsibility to keep good records of all business," explained Dulce.

Student Council can be a rewarding job and offers opportunities for those who get involved. Steve said, "I plan to be in Student Council again if I can." Mylene added, "I like being on Student Council because it gives me a chance to be more involved with the Student Body and because I feel more informed about what's going on."

Officers' goal: Unity

This year's Freshman Class had a very difficult task ahead of them. They had an unusually large number of students from all over the Bay Area, and most of them were not acquainted. However, under the leadership of President Clay Doherty, Vice-President Rosie Abels, and Secretary-Treasurer Robert Snowden, the class was united.

"I was nervous at first because I was new and didn't really know what to expect," said Robert. "But when I was elected, I tried to do my best."

"Our main goal was to bring the class together as one and get people involved," explained Clay.

And Rosie added, "Our job was to make sure the Freshmen's opinions and needs were brought to the attention of the Council."

Once again SJND opened its doors to a new class. Students in the Class of 1990 had many varied reasons for coming to SJND.

Victor Carrillo said, "I heard it was a good school with friendly people."

Both Scott Health and Marc Saraspi came "because most of our friends did." Jay Barnes, after a long search for a good high school, finally decided on this campus. "It appears to be one of the best Catholic schools in the East Bay," he explained.

Also drawn to SJND for the academics was Orlando Castrence who said, "I needed a good education, and this school had what I needed."

And Robert Snowden added, "I came because I needed another challenge."

Another challenge is what SJND is all about!

Why SJND?

Everyone has one reason or another for being a Pilot, and SJND teachers are no exception.

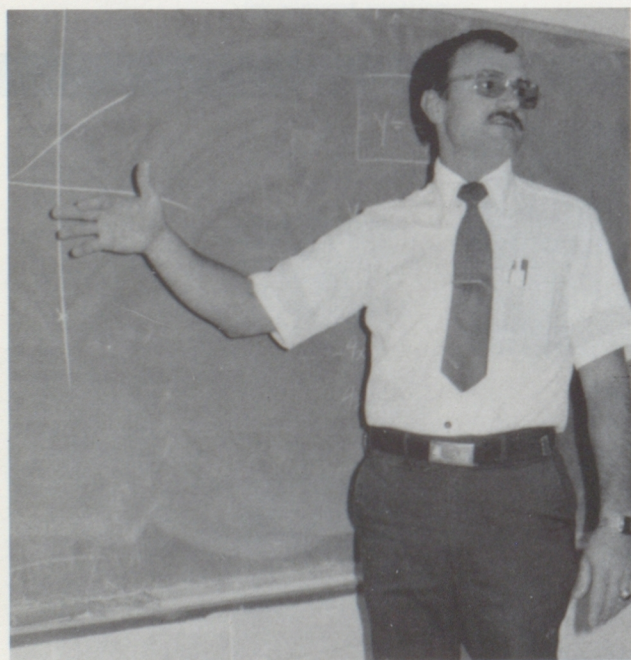

Mr. Morris Soublet explained, "I wanted to be a role model for minority students since there are not many black teachers in Catholic schools."

"I chose to teach at SJND because I liked the smallness of the school and that it truly fits the ideal of a Catholic school," said Mr. Ron Travers.

Miss Georgia Vlahos, an 18-year teacher at SJND, said, "A family environment has always been important in my life; that is why I have chosen to stay in this 'family' atmosphere."

Mr. Greg Fonzeno echoed this idea. "I like working here primarily because it's small and everyone gets to know one another which gives the school a family feeling."

"I stay," said Mrs. Elizabeth Norris, "because I believe we are an excellent school, and we try to provide a Catholic education for as broad a student population as we can."

Enjoying teaching high school students math is Mr. Leon Ak-sionczyk.

Ancient history!

Students, we often forget that our teachers were once high school students too. Many of our own SJND faculty played practical jokes, skipped school and failed to do their homework!

"When I was in high school I was pretty normal. I liked sports but academically I was lazy," said Mr. Jack Coakley.

"I was pretty wild in high school. I played a lot of sports and was an excellent student, but I never did any homework," commented Mr. Terry Dugan.

"I was outgoing, involved and definitely boy crazy!" said Mrs. Gail Rodrigues.

"I was quiet and shy but basically I enjoyed high school," said Mr. Ron Travers.

"I was active and involved. Toward my senior year I became more interested socially and academically," said Mrs. Carmen Lambert.

The newest members of the Mickey Mouse Club, Mr. Morris Souble and Ms. Georgia Vlahos, say "Hello" to all the kiddies in SJND land.

Senior Graciela Jasso collects a donation from Senior Jane Jennings as part of the Mission Club's efforts to help the needy.

What's a better way to become involved than an SJND club?

"The importance of a club is for people with the same achievements or interests to share their ideas with one another—to have a sense of pride in their club and feel it contributes to the whole of the school," explained Senior Ted Langowski, CSF president.

Mrs. Gail Rodrigues is served a special breakfast by Senior Anne Cronin. Student Council members welcomed teachers to the new school year with the annual Faculty Breakfast.

Making the difference

Have you ever wondered who is responsible for all those activities during the school year? Look no further than the Student Council.

This dedicated group organized everything from dances to faculty breakfasts. Through their spirit, determination and hard work they were able to produce a very lively school year.

Junior Helen Jun, sec/treasurer, said, "Everybody in this group has their own special abilities and used them in their positions on the Council."

Council members, as well as the other students, benefited from their efforts. "We had the chance to get more involved in activities like Spirit Week and everyday school functions," explained Sally Haims, Junior Class president.

Being an officer or a representative took time and often involved frustration, but Sophomore Class Vice-President Susan Henrickson echoed the other members when she said, "I think we got a lot more work done than we expected, and it was all worth it!"

Join the fun!

There is more to school than just going to class. In fact, there are many different active clubs at SJND for students to join.

"I joined because I liked the idea of different nationalities coming together for the same purpose."-Senior Kate Millosovich, Intl. Club.

"I was able to help the needy which made me feel good about myself."-Junior Mimi Moultrie, Mission Club.

"I joined to get more involved and be able to look back to my high school years and see what I did."-Senior Luz Nevel, Video and Pep Clubs.

"It was a chance to get together with others and do something at lunch-time."-Junior Mark Singer, Games and Science Clubs.

The Games Club offers lunchtime challenges to Juniors Dann Hall and Mark Singer.

Juniors Anthony Navasero and Vanessa Gonzalez get together with other International Club members for lunch and the sharing of cultures.

Alpine Club members Steve Ghio, Peter Collins and John Harvey, Sophs. are all ready for the first ski trip. Now all they need is snow!

National Honor Society members are recognized for their scholastic achievements at a special evening program.

Group Learning

You do not learn only in the classroom at SJND. Clubs were also a place to learn while being with friends and having fun.

"I learned how to use video equipment and what it is like to be a 'star'" said Junior Fitzroy Rush, Video Club.

"I have learned about other cultures besides my own and have shared some of the foods," said Junior Rhea Vito Cruz, Intl. Club.

"I learned what goes on in a t.v. studio and how it takes a whole crew of people to film a show," said Angie Lopez, Video Club.

"Tutoring Algebra I keeps my mind fresh with basic math skills," said Junior Tammy Castille, NHS.

A great help

"Invaluable" is the way Principal Anthony Aiello describes the support SJND gets from the Parish. School Board, Parents Association, Alumni Association and the new Boosters Club.

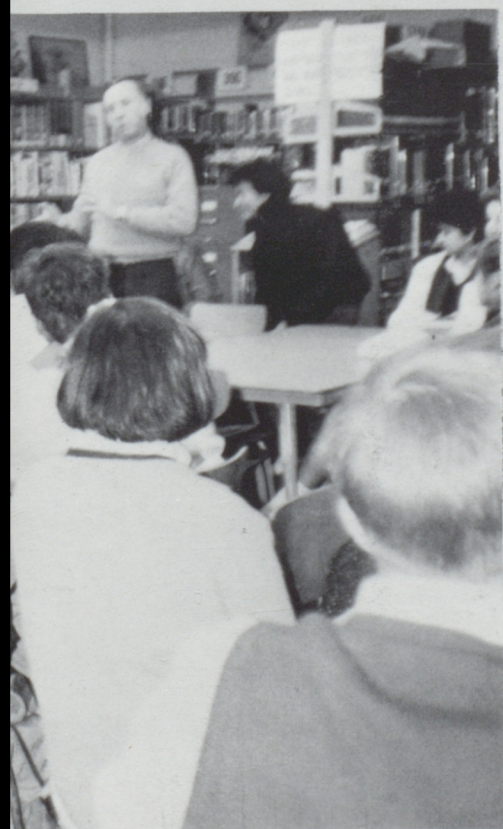

"They enhance our programs, publicize us and serve as links between the school and the communities that serve us," explained Mr. Aiello.

Whether it be spiritual guidance, setting policy, funding new programs, boosting the athletic program or buying much-needed equipment for students and teachers, these groups are always there for us.

Spiritual leadership comes from our pastor Rev. Patrick Goodwin SS. CC. He also provides guidance for the direction of the school and support through the Parish.

Mr. Mel Caughell, Booster president, and Mr. Richard Campbell help at basketball games as true "boosters" of Pilot athletics.

The Alumni Association funded and sponsored the new Instrumental Music Program this year. Student musicians were introduced to their instructor Mr. Keith Dishroom second semester.

Besides helping to set policy and advising in other school matters School Board members like Mr. Don Perata are also loyal supporters of Pilot athletics.

Socializing and eating are this group of Junior consumers' favorite pastime.

Chris Hunter, Freshman, indulges in Scalise's famous pizza bread.

"Don't take a picture of us when we're eating!" exclaim Seniors Samantha Alvis and Margaret Roth.

Unforgettable BUS i

Three cheers for our benefactors. The support of businesses, parents and students is one of the most important parts of the SJND yearbook, Reflections.

With ads, the staff is able to raise the necessary funds and in the process give students, parents and friends the option of reliable and generous companies with which to do business. "We wouldn't have a yearbook without this help," said Miss Micheli, advisor.

Behind the scenes

Many people worked together to make this an unforgettable yearbook.

The cover was designed with the creative help of Ms. Kate Reynolds, art teacher. The lettering was designed and drawn by Mr. R. Micheli, and the rest of the cover drawn and printed by Kristin Yorba.

Besides our two very able staff photographers, pictures were taken by James Maines, Mai Vu, Ginna Baldassarre, Jonas De Leon, Mr. Morris Souble, Miss Henrietta Pageau and Mr. R. Campbell.

Special thanks go to Mr. Ed Bordanaro and his staff for their photography, advice and rush jobs on our behalf!

"I'm really going to miss the SJND dress code . . ." sighs Senior Scott Vosburg.

"Eek! The school year is already over?!" screams Soph Terina Smith.

Oh so sad that the school year has ended is Soph Jenny Falletti.

Senior Sara Gutierrez will miss her favorite seventh period class . . . Housekeeping!

"Just how will I manage to fill my time all summer with no homework to do?" worries Soph Katherine DaEira.

Unhappy

Endings

Although students had been waiting for the return of summer since September 2, the last day of school provided unhappy endings for some. Soph David Robillard, for example, wept about leaving the campus!

The thought of these “unhappy” endings, however, brought on days of reminiscing about a very unforgettable school year.

Beginnings

As the 1986/87 year came to an end, the Seniors not only remembered all the fond memories of their 4 years at SJND, but considered all the possibilities and opportunities that lay ahead for them.

Paula Marcheschi and Scott Vosburg were elected to represent the graduated Seniors who have completed one part of their lives and will have new unlimited beginnings.
